Before the Event

1. Browse the speaker lineup and agenda:

Pick your must-see sessions but leave room for spontaneous detours.

2. Connect beforehand:

Find other attendees on LinkedIn. A simple "See you at UI5con!" goes a long way.

What to bring

1. Your laptop - you'll want to try things live
2. A charger - your battery won't survive the excitement
3. Your curiosity - the only real requirement
4. Your LinkedIn QR code - because nobody carries business cards anymore

During the Event

1. Sit in the front row

Seriously, it changes the experience.

2. Ask questions

That "silly" question? Five other people have it too.

3. Talk to strangers

The person next to you might be the one who solves your biggest blocker.

The unwritten rules

- Hallway conversations matter most. Some of the best "sessions" happen over coffee between talks.
- Speakers love follow-up questions. Don't be shy. Walk up to them afterwards. They want to hear from you.
- End the day right: join us for the afterparty with great food, drinks, and good music.

After the Event

1. Try ONE thing you learned

Not five, not ten. Just one, this week.

2. Connect on LinkedIn within 24 hours

"Great meeting you at UI5con!", that's all you need to write.

3. Share your experience

A post, a blog, a message to your team - your story might inspire someone to come next year.
